Historical/Biographical Information
Alexander Corbett was born in Glasgow Scotland July 30, 1856 to American parents. As a young man he worked as a printer and actor and took great interest in both. He worked with many of the notable actors of the day and became a close friend with the actress Lillie Langtry. His interest in printing and the stage led him to become a reporter for the Boston Globe for over 45 years where he became a noted theater critic. Corbett died in November 1935.
