Biographical Information

James Elliot Lapine was born in Mansfield, Ohio on January 10, 1949 the son of David and Lillian Lapine. After receiving his B.A. from Franklin and Marshall College in 1971, Lapine received an M.F.A. from the California Institute of Arts in 1973. He initially worked as a photographer and architectural preservationist before working at Yale University ca. 1975 where he was first introduced to the theatre as a resident graphic artist in that department. Soon, Lapine began his career as a stage director and playwright with works directed and/or written by him such as Photograph (ca. 1977) for which he won an Obie Award, Table Settings (1980), March of the Falsettos (1981), Twelve Dreams (1981), Falsettoland

(1989), Falsettos (1992), His collaboration with Stephen Sondheim on musicals such as Sunday in the Park with George (1984), Into the Woods (1987), Passion (1994) have earned him his greatest acclaim, including a Pulitzer prize (Sunday in the Park) and two of his three Tony Awards (Into the Woods and Passion). Lapine has been married to screenwriter/director Sarah Kernochan since 1985.
